the report, which classed all "the wet newspapers" of the State together, at practically every turn.

Action is Unprecedented.

They voted down Dr. Hatcher's resolution, which defined the report as the personal expressions of the members of the committee. They snowed under Rev. E. T. Wellford's substitute, to the effect that no action was called for on a report of this character. Then they did what Dr. Cannon himself had said was unprecedented—adopted the report as a whole.

was unprecedented—adopted the report as a whole.
Dr. Hatcher presented his resolution eigned by himself, Rev. William Stephens, Rev. D. S. Heukel and Rev. Thomas Semmes. This was intended to make the report the expression of the committee's opinion. The Richmond paster had a hard time getting the floor, and many attempts were made to cut him off. Dr. Cannon asked that he be heard, but Dr. Hatcher Insisted that he wanted the floor as a right, and not as a privilege.

not as a privilege.

No privileges were wanted by Dr. Hatcher. "God helping me," he said, "I shall stand for what I believe to be right, although I know my resolution will be snowed under. This report puts the editors of the best newspapers of Virginia in the same class with the bartenders, with their white sprons. It accuses them of villification, of suppression, of being subsidized. Now, every editor has his friends. This will do the league no good. I don't want anybody to stand by my language, nor to stand by Dr. Cannon's nor Mr. McAlister's. They have magnanimously stated they would accept full responsibility. Let it not go out over the State that we have adopted such a report."

Mr. McAlister resumed the floor. He referred to the criticisms of the newspapers contained in the preface to the coport of the legislative committee, saying he did not write it, and that the man who did so had been fill. While he somewhat disagreed with its language, said Mr. McAlister, regarding guage, said Mr. McAlister, regarding the companies rather than make the end of a night of hard work, he would stand by every word of it, and take all the newspapers would lay on him. "I ask no man to back me, if his manhood is not equal to the task," shouted Mr. McAlister. Then he recollected himself, and asked that this remark be expunged from the record. He said instead that it was a mighty little thing if the convention would not cover up a mistake made by its workers.

Fr. W. A. Christian offered as a substitute a resolution that the report. Save the recommendations as to the enabling act, be referred to the legislative committee for future action. This was at once tabled on motion.

Then the report of the committee on resolutions was adopted, including both the jug trade matter and the referendum proposition.

This was followed by the hot fight over the Hatcher resolution about the newspapers, already referred to, which consumed nearly all the forenoon.

The nominating committee presented its report, naming Rev E. T. Wellford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Newport News, where the meeting is held, as president. Mr. Wellford said he hardly saw how he could accept, as he has now more duties than he can attend to. However, he would pray over the matter. He was thered neeted, and the executive commit-

Committee on Resolutions.

"Resolved, I. That in the death of Rev. Charles E. Stuart the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia has lost a most efficient helper and a devoted and well-beloved brother. We greatly deplore his sudden end at a time when it is difficult to secure self-sacrificing men for a work that demands the best energies of a man's life and offers in return small remuneration and often, times from the public press sovere criticism and opposition.

"Mr. Stuart was in the prime of life and mental vigor, an untiring worker, an effective pleader for the cause he adopted so carnestly. His departure has created a serious gap in the ranks of the Virginia Anti-Saloon League workers which it will not be easy to fill.

"Resolved, That it is with the pro-workers which it will not be easy to fill.

DEATHS

LLEN-In the death of MAJOR OT-WAY'S ALLEN, which occurred at his home in this city on last Friday afternoon. Richmond has sustained a distinct loss. Not only was he a most genial gentleman, whose absence is sure to be missed, but it was owing to his efforts more than to that of any other individual that Richmond has its beautiful Monument Avenue. For it was he and his family who dedicated and gave the land upon which it was laid out and had it laid out. And if he had done nothing more for Richmond than insure to it that grand avenue it would be a thing for which he ought to be remembered. But he served his city and State well in other capacities; for, for a number of years, he was a member of the city Board of Aldermen, and was always punctual in his attendance and faithful in the discharge of his duties. And he was also a member of the convention which framed the present Constitution of Virginia, and his name will be found attached to that instrument. He also occupied other positions of prominence in the community, being at one time president of the Westmoreland Club, captain of the Stuart Horse Guards, a former military organization, of the city, and when the State organized a cavalry battalion he became Its major, a position for which he was admirably fitted by reason of his education at the Virginia Military Institute, But, better than any of these, he was a man whose integrity was unspotted.

When and Where Dollars Do the Most Good

Acquire the saving habit now while young, for who knows when some splendid opportunity will present itself that with ready money you can accept it and thereby reap excellent results. It is an undeniable fact that if we live that in old age our earning capacity is reduced to a minimum, and as is often the case, we cannot earn anything. All of us dislike cold charity, and being dependent upon others. Begin to-day to lay aside something for the inevitable "rainy day." The dollars that you want to spend NOW, if deposited in our Savings Department at 3 per cent. compound interest, will do more good in years to come than you can at present realize.
